CITY TRUSTEES

Matter of Sale of More Lighting Bonds Referred, So is Question of Brand Boulevard Grades—Pacific Electric Attorneys Say No Transfers

All members present. A long list of demands on the treasury was presented, principally upon the lighting department. The report of the manager of the lighting department was received and filed. Bills previously referred were reported back favorably. The report of the police and sanitary committee on application to put up a building on Adams street to be used in connection with the business of the Glendale Dye Works, was referred to the building inspector with request that Mr. Merrill make the application in person. The city attorney reported that the bond of the city treasurer was insufficient in two respects, the amount for which the bondsmen qualified and the justification. The matter of the sale of additional bonds of the electric light works was referred to the finance committee to investigate and report. The matter of deed from D. L. Swain to the city of a portion of block 57 for street purposes, was referred to the city engineer for correction. The matter of establishing grades where east and west streets cross Brand boulevard referred to committee of the whole in conjunction with the city engineer. The report of the tax collector was received and filed. The following letter from the attorneys of the Pacific Electric Railway Co. was referred to the ordinance and judiciary committee to secure an opinion by recommendation of the city attorney:

"Los Angeles, Jan. 24th, 1910.
"Mr. G. B. Woodberry, City Clerk,
Glendale, Cal.

"Dear Sir: Yours of the 24th inst. in regard to the transfer provisions of the Los Angeles Inter-urban Railway Co. is received. As we construe those provisions of the franchise, that company or its assigns, is not obligated to transfer from or issue transfers to the road now operated on Fourth street. When our letter of Oct. 28th, 1909, in regard to assigning the Fourth street franchise was written, we were of the same opinion, but suggested that Sec. 8 of the Fourth street franchise ordinance be repealed in order to avoid possible controversy that might arise with reference to this matter.

"Yours very truly,
"Gibson, Trask, Dunn & Crutcher,
"By Haskins."

Bids for the improvement of East Third street were then opened and declared as follows: Geo. B. Mock, grading, 36c; oiling and tamping, 3c; curb, 25c.

An ordinance providing for licensing dogs was read third time and passed.

FREE LECTURE.

Rev. J. W. Van Kirk, known sometimes as the "Plastering Parson," on account of the fact that he learned the plastering trade before he became a parson and practices it occasionally yet when circumstances require him to do so, called at the NEWS office this week. Mr. Van Kirk is an intelligent gentleman, a theological graduate and has also taken a post graduate course at Harvard University. He is a Methodist minister in good standing but feels that he has a call to preach the doctrine of fraternity around the world and now is making his second tour of the globe. He carries very high endorsements from churches and business men. On Tuesday evening next he will give a free lecture at I. O. O. F. hall on the subject "The Brotherhood of Man Around the World."

CHAPTER L. P. E. O.

On Monday afternoon Chapter L. P. E. O., met at the home of Mrs. Frank Albright to welcome the State Organizer Mrs. Addie Sexton, who inspected the chapter's work and gave the ladies much praise and many helpful suggestions. Following the business hour a social hour of unusual interest to the sisterhood followed, the guests giving animated accounts of their own chapter's work and pleasures. Mrs. Fisher of Chapter Q, Des Moines, the largest chapter in the world, told many tales of her beloved home chapter, followed by little sketches of P. E. O. home talks from Mrs. Lawyer of North Alhambra, and Mrs. Edith Kinnon of Marshalltown, Ia. The afternoon meeting closed with refreshments and plans of a reunion in a not too far distant future.

FAIRCHILD-ENGLE.

Mr. Logan Fairchild and Miss Luetta M. Engle, surprised a good many of their friends last Monday when it was announced that they had been married at "The Manse" by Dr. Ward of the Presbyterian church, the ceremony taking place at 11 a. m. They were treated during the evening following to an old-fashioned serenade which filled the atmosphere for several blocks around with solid chunks of discord.

AT THE HIGH-SCHOOL.

This is examination week and the pupils are in a state of nerves in consequence; however, they are doing good work and plenty of it. The Parent-Teachers exhibit of pictures takes place in the auditorium Friday afternoon, evening and during Saturday. There will be a large number of these pictures on exhibition and the display will be interesting and instructive in an unusual degree.

Miss Magowan has been absent all week on account of illness. The 12th year history class is doing some exceptionally good work just now. Recent papers read are the following: By Lillian Elias on the Hawaiian Islands; Clyde Morrow, Colonial Plantation Life; Kenneth Barager, the American Indian; Ray Morrow, A Review of the Payne-Aldrich Tariff; Luella Moore, Trusts, Pools and Corporations; Amy Johnson, Canada, Its Resources and Development. The classes are working hard in preparation for the oratorical contests. Every class has contests within itself, the winner to be one of the four who will contest for the honors of the school. It is proposed that the name of the winner shall be engraved on a tablet every year and thus be made a permanent record.

The Latin play "Dido," is coming along nicely. It is an adaptation from the Aeneid made by the class of '09. The date for the performance is not yet fixed.

There is a conspicuous absence of the patrons of the school, which the faculty regrets. Parents and others interested in the work are requested to visit the school and familiarize themselves with the work that is being done.

Last week on Saturday at Downey the Glendale Basketball team defeated the Downey team 38 to 16, this was the first game in the western division. They play today (Saturday) with the Azusa team, probably on the Occidental grounds, Los Angeles. This game will be for the championship of the Suburban League. The girls defeated the Girls' team of Downey on the grounds here last Saturday.

The cold weather has delayed work on the grounds, but the laying of the cement walks will be resumed soon.

Those interested are invited to a preliminary meeting at the rector's study on Monday evening next at 7:45. Membership is not limited to those connected with any church.

There is a woman in Glendale who will get into trouble if she continues to amuse herself by calling up the city marshal and sending in false fire alarms. He was sent out on two such fool errands on Wednesday by a call over the phone in a feminine voice. It is a kind of practical joking that ought to send the perpetrator to the calaboose or the asylum.

Last Saturday evening a small company of Glendale young people enjoyed a moonlight tramp to Verdugo. They visited Mr. and Mrs. William Nuss, who entertained them for several hours with selections on the phonograph, followed by refreshments. On their return to the Cornwell home of Jackson street the trampers were treated to a "swell" feed by the Misses May and Carrie Cornwell. Those enjoying the little outing were Misses May and Carrie Cornwell, Emily and Lillian Elias of Tropico; Messrs. Albert Cornwell, Daniel Kelly, Jr., Harry Lynch and Albert Marple.

Grounds at Fifth and Glendale. No admission but collection taken.

The Rev. F. M. Stead and wife of Kernanshaw, Persia, gave a happy surprise to Dr. and Mrs. Ward on Tuesday by driving up to their door and passing an hour with them. Mr. Stead was very well known during his student days in connection with the student volunteer movement. In 1902 he went to Persia and in connection with Hamadan Station has been making some records in the evangelistic work of that station. His wife, who is an M. D., has been a good second to her husband in pioneering for the gospel. They are spending a few days with relatives of Mrs. Stead in Burbank but leave soon for San Diego. They are using their American furlough to help along the Laymen's Movement that is gaining such headway at present all over the United States and Canada.

Miradero Lodge No. 96 K. of P. held public installation of its officers Tuesday night, January 18th. Dep. G. C. Meyers of Los Angeles was the installing officer. The following officers were installed: P. C., John P. Collins; C. C., S. A. Chase; V. C., B. Eachus; J. A. Spencer; M. at W. A. P. Joyner; M. of A. A. Dodson; I. G. Ed Shuey; O. G. O. P. Sampson; K. of R. & S. P. H. Davis; M. of F. Chas. Eudimiller; M. of E. R. P. McMullen. An eloquent address was delivered by Judge Noyes of Los Angeles. P. C. Collins was presented with a handsome K. of P. ring by the lodge for his faithful services the past year.

A large crowd was present. The affair closed with a dance and good music.

The lodge is in a flourishing condition, has 93 members, and meets every Wednesday night at 8 p. m.

The Training Class for Sunday School teachers held their meeting Wednesday, 3:30 p. m. in the Christian Church. The subject for next Sunday, "Jacob's Flight and Exile." Mrs. W. G. Ticht taught the lesson, bringing out a clear and connected idea of the story and its setting, that Jacob and Rebekah succeeded in their purpose, but they gained only trouble and sorrow by their deception. God had declared that Jacob should receive the birthright, and his word would have been fulfilled in his own time, had they waited in faith for him to work for them. But like many who now profess to be children of God, they were unwilling to leave the matter in his hands. Rebekah bitterly repented the wrong counsel she had given her son. In one short hour he had made work for a life-long repentance.

AT THE COUNTRY CLUB.

The club held a snooker last Saturday evening which was well attended by members and a few invited guests. A luncheon of sandwiches, coffee and other delectables was served informally and cards and billiards were used as time passers.

On the third Monday in February the regular meeting of the board of the Maids and Matrons of the Glendale Country club will be held. In the evening of that day a Colonial dinner will be served by the members to their families and friends.

What promises to be a pleasant affair is the dance which will be given by the members of the Glendale Country club in the club house, corner Third street and Brand boulevard this evening. The members have invited a number of select friends and have planned a good time for them.

At a recent meeting of the Maids and Matrons of the Glendale Country club the following officers were elected to serve for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. Menzo Williams; vice president, Mrs. V. Price Brown; secretary, Mrs. E. W. Richardson; treasurer, Mrs. Claude O. Pullman; directors, Mrs. Tom Thornton, Mrs. H. C. Bartlett and Mrs. Burt Richardson.

ORANGE SHIPMENTS DELAYED.

Orange shipments from this valley are being held back at this time, in order to give free run to the fruit from other sections which was bitten by the recent frosts. If this frost-bitten fruit is not hurried to eastern points and sold, it soon becomes worthless. This rush necessitates the lowering of prices, and for this reason the local shippers are holding back, feeling assured that just as soon as the rush is over the prices will improve. The citrus fruits in the section were not damaged in the least by the frosts.

It is stated at the packing houses that in about a month the season of the navel oranges will open, and from that time on a steady income is looked for. A number of cars of lemons were shipped from this place during the past two weeks.

CARD OF THANKS.

To the friends who have showed in many ways their kindness and sympathy during the illness and after the death of Dr. W. G. Ticht, I give my most sincere thanks.

MABEL L. TIGHT.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON CLUB NOTES.

The following program was presented this week by the music committee, Miss Augspurger and Mrs. A. L. Bryant. Both these ladies are lovers of music and culture and exercised great care and thought in arranging and producing their program. Every number was well rendered and enthusiastically received, but especial mention should be made of Miss Augspurger's paper showing her close intimacy with the life and work of our American composers. The solo work of Mrs. E. L. Robbins was an inspiring uplift. Her voice is beautiful, clear and highly cultivated.

ANNEXATION

Los Angeles Reaching This Way—Tropico South of Southern Pacific Railroad to Go In Next

People living anywhere near to the City of Los Angeles nowadays are irritable, without previous intimation of the pending fact, to wake up almost any morning and find that they have been "annexed" on the previous day. Under the annexation act passed by the last legislature, the City of Los Angeles has practically the power to gobble up, regardless of its ability to assimilate, any outside territory that it happens to cast envious eyes upon. Of course if the proposed territory is well populated, as in the case of Hollywood, the matter gets fair publicity and the question is not altogether one-sided. But here is a case in which the conditions are different from this. In the obscure columns of the Los Angeles Daily Journal (which circulates almost exclusively among the legal fraternity and is a convenient graveyard for matters which the law requires to be published, but that the general public need know nothing about) of Jan. 27th is published the notice of an "Annexation Election" to take place Feb. 18th, next. It fills two pages and the average reader has to look through it with careful consideration to find out whether his immediate neighborhood is included or not. We find that this election proposes the annexation of all the territory between the present northerly city limits of Los Angeles, from Hollywood to the Southern Pacific railroad track, which parallels the San Fernando road, up to the line of the Providencia (Burbank) Rancho. This includes Ivanhoe, Los Feliz and that portion of Tropico south of the Southern Pacific tracks. In Tropico it includes the tile works, the box factory and all the Richardson property lying between the railroad tracks and the river. The prime object of the city of Los Angeles doubtless is to secure full control of the bed of the Los Angeles river. There are but few voters in the territory proposed to be annexed and the chances are that parties interested particularly in the annexation can easily work-up sufficient interest among those few to get the requisite majority in favor of the project, outside the city, while within its limits there of course will be but little prospect of a serious division of opinion. The election opens on Feb. 18th; polls open from 6 a. m. to 6 p. m. Voting place for Tropico precinct, at the residence of J. A. Stone, on Tropico Avenue. Officers of election, C. L. Chandler, Chas. Fishel and J. A. Stone. The official notice will appear five times (Thursdays) in the Journal.

VALUABLE COLLIE DOGS KILLED.

A McDonald, keeper of the collie dog farm on Ninth street, reports that one night last week five of his valuable collie dogs were killed. The evening previous the dogs were put safely in their kennels, but in the morning when the owner went to let them out it was found that five of them had been killed. The manner in which they were killed was very unusual. The tongue and the roof of the mouth of each of the animals were bitten out by the animal or animals which did the killing. The dogs were nothing more than puppies and were valued at more than $25 each. Several of the little fellows were already sold.

MEASURING HEIGHT OF AN AEROPLANE.

A great many people who have been to see the wonderful exhibition of the aeroplanes at the Dominguez meet, have wondered possibly how the height obtained by them could be ascertained. The measurement requires two observers, one stationed at each end of a base that can be as long as desired and provided with an instrument for measuring angles. The observation must be taken by the two observers simultaneously. They note carefully the angle at which the object to be observed enters their field of vision and by a comparison the working out of the problem is a very simple matter.

GLENDALF, CAL., JANUARY 29, 1910

TO ADVERTISERS AND PATRONS GENERALLY

Our issue of February 12th will have some features of special interest and value for distribution among eastern friends, and visitors in our midst. One hundred copies of this issue will be left at the Chamber of Commerce, Los Angeles, for general distribution. One feature which will be found on the first page, will be a classified directory of our advertising patrons, including advertisers in the "News" whose regular bills amount to or exceed one dollar per month. This directory will be kept standing, with such changes made as may be necessary, and will appear at least once a month in the "News" hereafter, thus giving our advertisers the publicity which they merit.

THE GLENDALF NEWS.

By the removal of Dishman from the position of Chief of Police, the Alexander administration in Los Angeles seems to have been influenced by political considerations rather than the good of the service. Mr. Dishman was an excellent officer and his successor will have to do some remarkably good work or he will wobble around sadly in misfit shoes.

Our neighbor, Hollywood over the hills, became a part of Los Angeles this week. We congratulate Los Angeles, but as for Hollywood we halt between congratulations and condolence. The fact that the little city had an unsatisfactory water supply and is beginning to feel the need of a sewer system, were two weighty arguments in favor of annexation.

The dismissal of three cadets of the graduating class from the Annapolis Naval Academy for drunkenness is a wholesome lesson to other wards of the government at that school which they will no doubt profit by. Young men who will not or cannot overcome the temptation to make fools of themselves by becoming intoxicated, are certainly not fit to be officers in the service of the United States. It would be interesting to note the affect that their punishment will have upon the three young men in their future lives.

In the early part of April the city of Glendale will hold an election for three members of the board of trustees to take the places of Messrs. Blackburn, White and Grant. Mr. Grant's term expires and Messrs. White and Blackburn both having been appointed will step out also as soon as their successors are elected and qualified. The three members retiring will probably aspire to succeed themselves and there will doubtless be enough other candidates in the field for the lucrative positions, to make matters interesting. Messrs. Watson and Anderson hold over for two years more.

Twenty years ago the writer visited Riverside and remembers distinctly the enthusiastic remark of a friend who owned an orange orchard there, to this effect:

"How foolish it is to talk about the possibility of planting too many orange trees, when from the top of one of these hills you can look down upon the only portion of California in which they can be grown in commercial quantities."

Today one can go into the San Joaquin valley and see thousands of acres devoted to orange orchards, while in Southern California, Riverside is only one of a dozen places where the fruit is produced by hundreds of carloads yearly.

The flood in France is a great national calamity. The damage to property is incalculable and as we write, the end does not appear. Aside from the immense loss of property, many people have fallen victims to the unprecedented flood of waters while the deaths caused indirectly by cold and exposure may number thousands. Accounts indicate that the French people are bearing up under the calamity with wonderful fortitude, while officials in authority are doing everything possible to minimize the disaster. It looks at this time as if the fair land of France would be placed in the sad position of being thrown upon the charity of the world and that its famous gay capitol may be half in ruins when the waters subside.

It is useless for the newspapers to attempt any longer to conceal the fact that very serious damage was inflicted on the California orange crop by the recent prolonged spell of cold weather. The market reports from eastern cities tell the story in part. The loss to growers will be heavy. The sections producing late fruit will probably fare best. Not for many years has the crop been hit so hard by frost, but it is not unprecedented. In 1895-6 the eastern market during January and February was flooded with California frozen oranges, but prices for the later fruit were fairly satisfactory to the growers. At that time the damage was confined principally to the fruit from orchards on low ground, but the frost this year seems to have had little regard for differences in elevation.

of authority and to avoid taking them upon their own valuation. It would be very remarkable indeed if some wolves wearing the livery of reform have not already been admitted to the sheep fold. In California, the railroad company that has dominated the politics of the state for many years, has met with serious damage to its political machinery, but its engineers are accustomed to watching for danger signals and are astute enough to take a hint when a house falls on them. "Anti-railroad" candidates will be superabundant in the coming campaign, and it is even probable that from Mr. Herrin's headquarters in San Francisco the order has been issued to the faithful to proclaim aloud the most implacable hostility to the railroad company; it will be a vote-making slogan; Republicans will vie with Democrats and Prohibitionists, Socialists and all others will try to prove to the voters that they are going to do all sorts of unpleasant things to the "octopus," and then having made the declaration some of them will slip into the captains of office and with him chuckle over the ease with which they fooled the dear people.

FOOLING THE PEOPLE.

Reform is now the popular thing in our political life. There is not much doubt but that the movement for better government which was given its impetus by Theodore Roosevelt, will keep on growing until the old machines are broken in pieces by triumphant democracy and new ones are installed, for that is what it amounts to. The idea that there can be any kind of practical politics other than through a political organization, is a fallacious one. And a political organization means a political machine. The average man can not possibly give to political affairs that close attention and serious study which the subject demands and therefore the rank and file must depend upon their leaders to tell them what to do. The voting majority which recently made such a clean sweep of the old order of things in Los Angeles, merely followed the leadership of a few men; they did not cast their votes for certain men because they knew them, but because they were advised to vote a certain ticket by the few leaders in whom they had confidence. To cast an intelligent vote is one of the most difficult things that the average citizen is called upon to do and often with the best possible intentions he makes a bad mess of it. But the Providence which watches over the destinies of men and nations, does seem in some inscrutable manner to give to the mass a wisdom which is denied to the individual, and in a great political crisis the majority can usually be depended upon to do the right thing. At the same time the popularity of the reform movement is its greatest menace. When the apparently right thing to do becomes the popular thing, the doing of it implies no particular possession of virtue. The reform ranks are swelled to an almost unwholesome fullness just now by accessions of recruits from adherents of the old machines everywhere, and the deserters do not always slip into camp noiselessly and with modest demeanor assume places under the new flag, but they come over with the accompaniment of drums and trumpets, loudly proclaiming their virtue. It behooves the voters in the campaign that is now approaching to carefully examine the credentials of aspirants for positions.

THE MEAT STRIKE.

The revolt against the apparently inexcusable high price of meat continues to grow more serious day by day. The present meat strike is unique and unprecedented and emphasizes the fact which it is well to be reminded of occasionally, that the people are supreme and in one way or another when they unite for a common purpose what ever it may be, will have their way. The strike comes like a lightning bolt out of the clear sky of prosperity, and like the "shot at random sent, finds mark the archer little meant." For it promises to be widespread in its effect and threatens in its immediate results to be disastrous to more than the one line of business that it is aimed at. The packers declare that the principal sufferer will be the farmer who has live stock to sell, but this seems to be a far-fetched conclusion, for the great majority of the farmers buy their meat. The raising of cattle and hogs has in the last score of years become a special industry, and diversified farming although still practiced to some extent is not so general as it was in the days when transportation problems were yet unsolved. It appears to us that while the producers of live stock for food purposes will doubtless be losers by a movement adverse to the meat producing industry, there will be some one a few removes further along the line that will find his profits largely reduced. For a reduction in the price of meat has already taken place and will no doubt continue until a considerably lower point is reached. That the few packers who control the industry to a very great extent, have been gathering in unreasonable profits on the business, cannot we believe be truthfully denied; testimony showing this to be the case has been abundantly produced before and will no doubt be developed again.

In the meantime some of the reasons given for the high price of meat are fanciful and far-fetched. For instance, Mr. Charles Edward Russell, a writer on economic questions, says that "the condition is not the work of individuals, but of a world-wide evolution—meat is relatively no higher than eggs, butter and other things." Any housekeeper with a memory reaching back over a score of years, can successfully refute Mr. Russell's statement and prove that meat is relatively much higher than other food staples. The prices of butter and eggs proves nothing, as they are always variable, but meat has advanced steadily for a few years past, with scarcely a retrograde spasm. The price of bread, stuffs, clothing and almost everything else in common use, while showing some advance, lags far behind the price of meats. The strike will have one good and more or less permanent result, it will demonstrate the fact that meat is by no means a necessity to the majority of people, and that there are a number of substitutes for it as article of diet that are more healthful and less expensive.

THE PLANET VENUS.

(For The News)

For many months Venus has been a beautiful object in the evening sky after sunset, and though still brilliant, she is now on the wane, having reached her greatest brightness on January 7th. She is rapidly approaching that point of her orbit lying immediately between the earth and the sun, arriving at inferior conjunction about the middle of February. She will then pass to the west of the sun, and appear as a morning star in March but to see her glorious light her admirers must be early risers.

As most of our readers are aware, Venus is the second planet outwards from the sun, around which she travels in a nearly circular orbit at an average distance of about sixty-seven million miles. Being therefore about twenty-five million miles nearer the sun than we are, she takes a much shorter time to accomplish one revolution. So the Venusian year is only 225 days. The diameter of Venus is 7700 miles, very nearly that of the earth, and until quite recently it has been generally assumed that she revolved on her own axis in about 23 hours 22 minutes, pretty nearly the length of our own day.

As a naked eye object Venus is undoubtedly the most beautiful member of the solar system, but viewed telescopically she is perhaps the most disappointing, as very few surface markings are to be discerned, and even those few quite uncertain and indefinite. She sometimes shines so brightly that she dwarfs the great luster of Jupiter, casting a distinct shadow on a moonless night. At such times she is readily visible in broad daylight to those who know where to look, appearing as a tiny white speck on the blue noon day sky.

The orbit which Venus traces round the central luminary is much nearer the latter than that of the earth, consequently she passes between us and the sun at every revolution, but, as the two planets do not travel exactly in the same plane, Venus only occasionally comes exactly in front of the sun. When that phenomenon occurs, however, it is a most important astronomical event. It is known as a transit, and is used to determine the distance of the sun, and from that the relative distances and sizes of all the members of the solar system. Transits of Venus occur in pairs eight years apart, after long intervals. The last pair occurred in 1874 and 1882, the next will occur in A. D. 2004 and 2012. Who now living will live to see that! But we may see it from another plane of existence—who can tell?

When we come to consider the constitution and physical condition of Venus we encounter almost insuperable obstacles to any definite information. In the case of planets, though they are comparatively near us, it is more difficult to obtain exact results as they only send us the reflected sun light, so the spectroscopic aid, as put little in our investigation of the members of the solar system. The fixed stars on the other hand, though at almost infinite distances from us, send us their own light, and thus reveal themselves in the spectroscopic with marvelous exactness.

We are therefore almost entirely dependent on direct telescopic vision for examination of markings and appearances which may be detected on the disc of the planet. At the best these are very difficult to define, mainly on account of their extreme minuteness, and it requires years of special training and the clearest and stillest atmosphere to get anything like definite results.

Until quite recently the physical condition of Venus has received little attention, and it was generally supposed that, being about the same size as the earth, and having a day of similar length, other conditions might be about the same as they are here.

For the past twelve years, however, Professor Percival Lowell has been devoting much time to the study of Venus at Flagstaff, Ariz., where conditions are as perfect as can be obtained anywhere, and the staff of the observatory are specially trained for planetary observation. The results at which they have arrived present a picture entirely different from that previously presented for our imagination.

The observations at Flagstaff were mainly directed to the determination of time of revolution of the planet on its axis; that is to say the length of its day. By carefully observing certain spots and markings on the day disc revealed in the telescope they have reached the conclusion that it is not a day of hours, weeks or months, but is in fact co-incident with the periodic revolution round the sun. That the planet always turns the same face to the central orb, exactly in the same way the moon behaves in relation to the earth. Consequently the most terrible conditions prevail in the beautiful planet. No alteration of day and night, no summer and winter, one side eternally exposed to the fierce blaze of torrid sunshine, much more intense by being 25 million miles nearer the sun than the earth, and the other forever in utter darkness, and intense cold, colder than anything we can imagine here. Any form of life existing in such conditions is quite inconceivable.

Tidal action is assigned as the cause of this remarkable state of Venus. The oceanic tides act as a brake on axial revolution, retarding the motion and therefore lengthening the day of the planet, and being in constant operation through untold ages, the day is finally extended to infinitude. That is to say, it is destroyed altogether, becoming identical with the year of the planet. That this has actually occurred to Venus is the belief of Professor Lowell and his associates at Flagstaff.

These gentlemen have given us some startling opinions of conditions on the planet Mars, which have attracted world-wide attention. But it should be said that neither their views of Mars nor of Venus have received the sanction and endorsement of the astronomical world, and while acknowledging the undoubted ability and sincerity of Professor Lowell it must be said that his conclusions with regard to Mars and Venus still await confirmation.

The theory of tidal retardation is however quite sound and has been completely worked out by many able mathematicians, and it is interesting for us to know that all planets are subject to its influence. As a result, therefore, of the eternal drag of tidal action, the terrestrial day is surely lengthening and the earth will in time share the common fate of dreary desolation. But it is estimated that our day has not increased a tenth of a second in a century; so the tragedy of the human race predicted by mathematical science is comfortably very far ahead in the almost infinite future.

THE NOBLE PRIZES.

This year's prizes will be distributed as follows: Physics, divided between William Marconi and Prof. Ferdinand Braun of Strasburg; for chemistry, Prof. Wilhelm Ostwald of Leipzig; physiology or medicine, Prof. Theodore Kocher of Berne; literature, Selma Lagerlof, the Swedish authoress. These prizes amount to $40,000 each and are awarded yearly to the persons who are considered to have conferred the greatest benefits to mankind during the year. One other prize is to be given to the person deemed to have made the best effort toward the fraternity of nations and the promotion of peace. It will be remembered that Theodore Roosevelt received this prize two years ago.

A human skeleton was exhumed in France in February of last year which scientists say is what remains of a human being who existed on earth twenty thousand years ago.

General Frank C. Prescott, whose term as registrar U. S. land office has expired, has returned to the practice of the law with offices at Room 432, Chamber of Commerce, Los Angeles. Prior to his appointment to the land office General Prescott had been especially successful in the general practice of the civil law and his attention will be devoted thereto together with such land office practice as his experience may naturally lead to. Glendale people will remember the Fourth of July address given by him. He brings the same force and energy into his office and trial practice and his position at the Los Angeles bar will bring him numerous clients.

Have you seen the comet? It is visible shortly after sunset, following in the apparent track of the sun low in the West. By comparison with Venus conspicuously brilliant in the western sky, the comet is a dull enough object, its tail is prolonged half way up to the zenith.

The Humming Bird's Flight.
The flight of the little humming bird is more remarkable than that of any of the eagle. We can understand the dapping of the eagle's immense wing supporting a comparatively light body. But our little bird has a plump body. His wings are not wide, but long, so he must move them rapidly to sustain his weight, and this he can do to perfection. The vibrations of his wings are so rapid as to make them almost invisible. He can use them to sustain himself in midair, with his body as motionless as if perched on a twig. In this way he can sip the nectar of the delicate, fine stemmed flowers without alighting for a moment. He never alights while so engaged. He moves from flower to flower with a graceful and rapid movement, sometimes chasing away a bee or humming bird moth, of which he is very jealous. Nor is he much more favorably impressed with any small birds that seem in his way. He knows his power of flight, and he has no fear of any other bird.—St. Nicholas.

A Garrick Incident.
The picture of Garrick in the witness box, tongue tied and smothered with confusion, is an amazing one, for Garrick when speaking was concerned and was the pride of London. Members of parliament envied him his powers Burke envied him. There is that instance in parliament when during a heated debate a member moved that the gallery be cleared. This was ordered to be done, and the strangers withdrew, all save Garrick. Still the member objected. Then up spoke Burke. Would it be fair to exclude from their debate the master of eloquence, the genius who taught them the art of speaking? he demanded. For himself he was proud to acknowledge his indebtedness to Garrick. Fox followed in the same strain. And Townshend the house then voted that the stranger should remain." And Garrick did not budge—St. James' Palace.

Mexican Tidbits.
Water bugs and worms are among the tidbits in which the Mexican peons delight. He catches his bugs as they skim along the top of fresh water ponds, drying them and then eating them with as much zest as an American boy eats peanuts. As near as the peon can explain it, their favor is something on the order of the chestnut, but as no white man has ever tried eating water bugs or, if he has, couldn't dare confess it, the exact taste of these Mexican morsels can't be described very accurately. The peons love, too, on the nice fat pulguc worm. His insect is about two inches long and half an inch thick. They fry the miny in grease and pack it in brown paper packages of a dozen worms, which bring 2 cents a paper. An insatiable pulguc worm collector makes good living.—New York World.

Turkey's Unit of Value.
In Turkey the unit of value is the lira, which is divided into 40 paras, while the para is divided into 4 aspes. As the piastre is worth only 4.4 aspes, the para is worth a little more than a half of a cent, and an aspe is worth a trifle over one twenty-seventh of a cent. When an American in Turkey wants to feel rich he goes forth and buys some 2,700 aspes, which he spends with lavish hand over the bar-

Self Restraint.
Ellen stopped scrubbing the veranda steps long enough to cast an admiring eye on her employer's garden. "Sure they are fine posies ye have, doctor," she said. "I've a neat little house I bought with the money I'd put by, and an elegant garden it had last year, too, but now there's neither stick nor stalk in it."

"Sure, me neighbor—bad luck to her—had a ditch dug in her land, and the water ran down into me garden and washed all me seeds away."

"And what did you do about it?"

"What could a poor lone body like me do?"

"Well, didn't you at least say something to the woman, complain or tell her that you wouldn't stand it?"

"Now, doctor, dear, bad words just leads to bad feelings among neighbors, and that ye know as well as I do, and it's not me that would be using them. So I only said to her, 'I hope I'll live to see the floods flowing over your grave as your ditch waters have flowed over me garden,' and I let it go at that."—Youth's Companion.

Couldn't Stand Satire.
 A burglar while attempting to rob a bloated bondholder of Maryville by mistake got into the humble residence of an editor next door. After unsuccessfully fumbling about for suitable assets for some time he was disgusted to observe the tenant of the house sitting up in bed and laughing at him.
 "Arn't you old Skinderson, the capitalist?" inquired the housebreaker.
 "Nary time," chuckled the journalist.
 "I'm the editor of the Screaming Eagle."
 "Jerusalem!" said the burglar, looking at his stamewinder. "And here I've been wasting four precious hours on this branch almshouse. I say, old quill driver, you never poke fun at your subscribers, do you?"
 "Not the cash ones."
 "Exactly," said the burglar, taking up his wallet. "Here's six months' subscription to call this thing square. If there's one thing on earth I can't stand, it's satire."—London Tit-Bits.

Free Postage.
When the postoffice was first opened at Kai Feng, China, the clerks had a fight with some men who bought stamps and refused to go away until the stamps were licked and stuck on their envelopes for them. The foreign postoffices in Palestine are usually consulted by a spirit of keen competition. If a parcel exceeding the regulation weight or size is taken to an office and refused the traveler has the misfortune of cases has only to threaten to take it to a rival office, and it is straightway received without question. So even is the rivalry between some of these offices that residents in Palestine possess a free post within certain districts. Between Jaffa and the surrounding colonies and also with Jerusalem the German and Austrian offices make no charge for the delivery of local letters. Chicago letters.

An Obedient Dog. Schnapps is a dachshund, and the people who know all about the breed all the queer looking animal handsome. In the house in New York where he is the pet he is credited with more than an ordinary dog sense and with understanding every word said to him in English or German. In order to demonstrate his sagacity his master said to him a few evenings ago: "Schnapps, the young people have been here long enough. Go down and tell the boys to go home." Downstairs he waddled and, standing before the visiting youths, barked and howled, then ran to the front door and back again and ran up to perfect silence. When the crowd master explained "the young people have been here long enough," he heard and saw the point. Pretty soon he said: "Herr dachshund!—Exchange."

Origin of White Race.
The discussion of the precise locality where the primitive man developed to the white race is by no means settled as yet. The old theory that the Aryan or white race began in Asia is still held by many high authorities, but other authorities equally high maintain that the original "white man's country" was Europe and that from Europe the race spread to other parts of the world. It is safe to say that the last word upon the subject is not yet been spoken. The debate still open and will probably remain so for a very long time to come.—New York American.

He Did Not Hesitate.

"You must rest," said the specialist after a knowing thumping of the popular preacher's person. "You will be in the next world in three months unless you go abroad and take a complete rest."

"Oh, then I'll go abroad at once," read the preacher quite innocently.—Month's Companion

A Pig Tale.

The southern negro who is not possessed of a pig considers himself poor. This is well known to the white people, so that when an anciently approached a white neighbor for the request that he "give him a dollar ter help buy a pig, cause yuther pig had been done dead, a desired amount was promptly forthcoming.

A few days later the white man met the old negro and inquired: "Did you get another pig, uncle?" "Deed Ah did, sah, an' hit am a shoat, an' Ah sholy am much obliged to you fer helpin' me, Mars."

"Well, take better care of this one," Tom suggested. "By the way, added idly, 'what did the other pig eat—cholera?'"

The old man pulled his forelock and depreciatingly.

"Now, Mars Tom, what for you'll er ax dat?" he said. "Fob a er fac', dat yuther pig died. Ah hit him on de bald wid er er bein' fat an' de wedder jest an' me help' hungry fer fresh"—New York Times.

A Creepy Experience.

Rev. Clarence Godfrey on retirement night determined that he try to "telepath" a phantom himself to a lady living in another part of the city, tells H. Addington in Success Magazine. For about minutes he endeavored in thought to appear to her. At the end of that time he fell asleep.

About four hours later the lady on was he had been "exerting his will" with an impression that she heard a curious sound. She felt nervous and uneasy and thought that she went downstairs and took a look of soda water it might have a cooling effect.

Coming back, she was astounded to find the form of Mr. Godfrey standing the staircase. He remained standing there for three or four seconds, she stared at him in horrified amazement. Then as she approached the staircase he disappeared.

Right or Wrong?

Professed politicians who have resented officeholding to an exact science the independent voter a sad stumbling block, a fact which is amusingly disclosed by a story found in the of the late George Moore Grant, eminent Canadian educator and orator.

Toward the end of Sir John Macdougall's life he and Principal Grant, met at the head of Queen's college, met at the house of the premier's brother-in-law, Professor Williamson. "How I wish," the premier said to the principal, "that you would be a body friend of mine."

"My dear Sir John," the principal replied, "I have always supported you and you were right."

The premier's eyes twinkled, and he laid his hand upon the shoulder of the principal.

"Dear man," said he, "I have no other species of friendship."

Spoiled the Trick.

A New York official who had gone to a political campaign, speaking of his success, said: "The tricky man always finds up by being too tricky."

Brown, who lives in Fifth avenue, speared his English butler of drinking wine. So one night he drugged some of bottles of four or five dollars. Brown went and left them in a drug room.

Unfortunately that night Brown's wife returned late from the opera. She said the wine and had it put down in the wine cellar along with the other bottles of Chateau. Brown had told him. Brown is wondering to this day which two bottles are the drugged ones. He has stopped drinking Chateau. In fact, I understand his whole stock of it is for sale at a reasonable price.—Exchange.

Truth and Fiction.

At the Lancers club one night were a lot of literary men as dinner when some one gave utterance to the following:

"All gentlemen, truth is more than fiction."

"Perhaps so," said Wilton Luck.

The death of Mrs. Stevenson, mother of Andrew Stevenson of Central avenue, has cast a shadow over the community. She was a woman of sterling worth and withal a strong Christian character. On the remaining two lots, two pretty residences will be erected and will be rented or sold. THE THURSDAY AFTERNOON CLUB.

The Thursday Afternoon Club met with Mrs. Carmack on the 20th of this month with Mrs. Hough and Mrs. Ed. Ayers assisting as hostesses. A very interesting program was given on "Art Treasures," with Mrs. Robert Hopkins as chairman for the day. A collection of very old and valuable works of art, belonging to residents of Tropic, was displayed for the benefit of those present. A piano solo by Mrs. C. E. Parker, a vocal solo by Miss Evelyn Ayres, a reading by Miss Hibben, and one or two good articles read on subjects pertaining to art, constituted the entertainment. And after the usual good time socially and a regular New England repast, the meeting adjourned.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Shoemaker on Cypress street, on the 3rd of February, and as it is so near to the lot now owned by the Club it has been decided to have a picture taken of all the members on the site of the new Club House. The future State President, Mrs. Bauerhyte, will give one of her lectures on her special philanthropic work in Los Angeles, and the ladies will be greatly pleased at the opportunity of contributing, in the way of clothes, for the Maternity Cottage Store, and assisting in the good work.

FELL ASLEEP.

Just after the shades of night had fallen Saturday the spirit of Mrs. Jane Allen Stephenson, mother of Andrew Stephenson, took its flight to its Creator. Grandma Stephenson, as her relatives and many friends lovingly addressed her, had resided with her son, Andrew Stephenson and family the past two years, where she received loving care and tender ministrations. Gently as a tired child falls asleep at the close of day, she went to rest. She closed her tired eyes and folded her hands which had always been so willing in aiding the needy and those requiring assistance and gently passed on to the life beyond.

Mrs. Stephenson, who was a native of Scotland, came to Tropic, two years ago from her home in Oneda, Illinois, and was in her 84th year.

Funeral services were held at the residence of Mr. Stephenson, Monday afternoon and were conducted by Rev. H. C. Shoemaker, of the First Presbyterian church. "Nearer My God to Thee" and "Asleep in Jesus" were rendered by a quartet, Mrs. Clyde R. Carmack, Mrs. Wesley H. Bullis, John Hobbs and S. Jay Rice, accompanied by Mrs. D. Jemison. The large concourse of friends assembled led by the pastor united in repeating the 23d Psalm, which Grandma loved so well and repeated so often. The pall bearers were Hal H. Davenport, S. E. Brown, Burt Richardson, and W. G. Black. In beautiful Forest Lawn memorial park, surrounded by fragrant blossoms, and in the golden sunshine of the afternoon with the mocking birds singing in the graceful palms there they laid Grandma to await the resurrection morn.

Waste Not, Want Not

is an old adage and is observed by every careful housewife. There is not an ounce of bread or biscuit wasted if made of our famous "EMPRESS" Flour. This is an all Kansas hard wheat product, milled in Kansas, not blended with any other wheat, is therefore genuine. For a limited time we are selling it 1-8's, 95c; 1-4's, $1.85. None better at any price.
